

Get Ahead: The Essential GP Trainee Skills Day

Friday 16 April 2010
BMA House, London

- How to excel in your training
- Tips on presenting yourself to employers, including CV writing and interview skills
- Money matters
- Get ahead with jobs
- Salaried vs Partnership – be in the know

General Practice is an amazing career, full of opportunities. A popular choice, it is also an increasingly competitive job market. This one-stop Essential Skills Day aims to help you make the very most out of your training and preparation for life as a GP, from expert advice on presenting yourself to employers through your CV and interview to managing your finances in the early years of practice. There will be sessions on how to make the most out of your career choices and helping you to avoid the pitfalls of the journey ahead. This conference will equip you with vital know-how that you cannot afford to be without, and that you won't find anywhere else.

General Practice is a career which offers many opportunities and choices: this conference aims to help you use your training and first years of practice to establish a career that works for you. The final years of training can be a very busy and challenging time, and we will offer practical advice and support to help you to make the most of the opportunities available to you.

The conference aims to help you:

- Benefit from the knowledge and experience of the GP Trainees Subcommittee and leading GPs
- Have your questions answered by the experts
- Understand the variety of jobs available, understand and sign the right contract
- Have the right information to help you maximise your careers options and make your career work for you

Who should attend?

This conference will be of interest to all those who are preparing for life as a GP, but particularly for GP Trainees, Foundation Trainees and those who have recently completed their GP training.
